The sentences that end with a question mark (?) or asking for some information are called question sentences

Most questions have the words how, what, where, why, who, which or when.

We always put a question mark (?) at the end of a question.

Let us understand them with some examples

1. How - We use how the way the action is completed.

For example -

What - What will I do today?

3. Where - We use where with the place of that action.

For example -

Where - Where do you live?

4. Why - We use why with the reason for that action.

For example -

Why - Why are you not in the class?

5. Who - We use who with the person who does the action.

For example

Who - Who broke the glass?

6. Which - We use which with the choice between two actions.
